We Want Your Brass Back Here!

Chase Brass is proud to offer our customers genuine American-made, highly engineered brass products that provide superior quality at a competitive cost and are supported by a responsive domestic supply chain.

That's right, fabricators/finishers and consumers now have access to a 100% U. S. supply chain for their directional fittings and engineered shapes. It all adds up to significant potential savings AND higher production efficiencies resulting in more competitive finished parts for your customer.

When you start with American-made Chase Brass engineered products you're doing the right thing for your company and for your country.

Chase has proudly made Brass products in America by dedicated employees for over 14 years.
