

Wieland acquires Breuckmann eMobility

In line with its strategy to expand its technology portfolio, Wieland has acquired Breuckmann eMobility effective August 12th 2022. The company was founded in 2018 as a subsidiary of Breuckmann GmbH & Co. KG., a family owned business with over 60 years of experience in copper and copper alloys casting.

Breuckmann eMobility produces zero porosity rotors (ZPR[®]) out of copper as well as aluminum. These are manufactured based on a patented die casting technology called laminar squeeze casting and have applications in the rail, industrial and automotive sectors. Located in Heiligenhaus, Germany and Esztergom, Hungary, the company has been renamed to Wieland eTraction Systems.

“The high-performance product portfolio of Breuckmann eMobility is an ideal fit for Wieland Group. With these premium products, we can extend our offering to an even wider range of solutions for e-mobility components,” said Dr. Erwin Mayr, CEO of the Wieland Group.
